I. Organization and Program Information

TerraCorps cultivates an ecosystem of people and organizations that center community land ownership, access, and stewardship to support a diversity of interests that benefit human health and environmental sustainability. We value the power of local nonprofits to best understand and serve their communities and our goal is to help them succeed by providing them access to the AmeriCorps national service model to build organizational capacity.

TerraCorps partners with a network of 40+ nonprofits in Massachusetts and Rhode Island focused on community needs related to local land conservation and sustainable agriculture. These partners provide service sites for a new cohort of up to 60 AmeriCorps service members annually who serve in one of five coordinator roles focused on:

- Land Conservation
- Land Stewardship
- Sustainable Agriculture
- Community Engagement
- Youth Education

Service members are paired with a site supervisor who provides them guidance and mentorship while they learn to manage community programs and projects over an 11-month, 1,700-hour service term.

WOONASQUATUCKET RIVER
WATERSHED COUNCIL

Service member will be serving at Woonasquatucket River Watershed Council. Community Engagement Coordinators focus their service activities on building connections with diverse community constituencies using a multitude of communications, educational, and organizing strategies. The Woonasquatucket River Watershed Council (WRWC) sparks economic development through our grassroots work restoring the Woonasquatucket River and communities around it, and by bringing community members to the Woonasquatucket River Greenway through engaging programs. WRWC aims to support community members by equipping them with the knowledge and resources to become environmental justice leaders with an acute awareness of public health, stormwater, flooding, transportation, toxic exposure, and heat challenges.
